[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, March 22.—The following is a continuation of George Sala's description of the removal of the czar's body from the Winter Palace to the Cathedral saints Peter and Paul, prevented from coming yesterday, owing to the disarrangement of the cable.

In the procession after the grand dukes and princes walked generals and aides-de-camp of the emperor, with aides-de-camp and suites, their imperial highnesses and foreign princes. These were preceded by a company of grenadiers of the palace surrounding the stately mourning coach, with the empress and her children, accompanied by Princess Marie Paulsom, wife of Grand Duke Vladimir. The windows of the carriages were flanked by two esquires-at-arms and the rear was guarded by a couple of Cossacks. Almost similarly escorted drove in one mourning carriage Grand Duchess Alexandrin Josephevna, daughter of the late Duke Saxe-Altenburg and the wife of Grand Duke Constantine; Olga Feodorovna, princess of Baden, and the wife of Grand Duke Michael, with the duchess of Edinburgh. In another carriage was Princess Marie Maximilianovna, Princess Comanskoky, Duchess Luchtenburg, Therese Petrovna, Princess Eugenie Maximilianovna, of Oldenburg, and Duchess Helena Georgievna, of Mecklenburg Strelitz. Following these came ladies of honor attending the princess, then great court officials, with the chamberlains and the gentlemen in waiting, his late majesty's physicians, body servants, etc. Five companies from as many regiments of guards, one battery of artillery, two squadrons of cavalry, another battery of horse artillery and finally a squadron from the school of cavalry. Meanwhile a black flag bearing the cipher of the deceased czar, embroidered in white, had been hoisted to a tall gilded spire on the cathedral within the fortress. The center of the nave of the cathedral was filled by a huge catafalque, with its cloth of gold lined with ermine and rising to the very roof of the edifice. Beneath this was a dias with three grades covered with crimson velvet, while the surrounding pillars of the catafalque were shrouded alternately with draperies of cloth of gold and cloth of silver bearing the monogram of the lamented czar.

At length the head of the cortege, consisting of the personal escort of his late majesty's brilliant bank cuirassiers with white tunics and silvered helmets, mounted on superb black chargers appeared at the Ivanovskiya gate. The foreign ambassadors, ambassadoresses, ministers plenipotentiary and consorts with members of respective legations, ladies in waiting, maids of honor of the late empress, senators and such high Russian officials whose rank entitles them to places in the church, ranged themselves around the steps of the catafalque anxiously watching for the bringing in of the illustrious dead. The bishops, priests and deacons in sable velvets, stiff with silver embroidery, and the choiresters and acolytes in cassocks of black serge stood in readiness, expectant and immobile in dead silence, then mutely filed into the church, while the great body of officers of superior rank, bearing Russian decorations, crosses, badges, crowns and diadems, all intermingled into such glittering, glistening confusion that the scene could only be likened to some swollen river full of gold and silver fresh flowing into a sea of lapis lazuli and diamonds. These stood around the head of the coffin in a semi-circle. The regalia was arranged on either side of the imperial standard, to the left lay a shield and sword, and on the right were the orb and sceptre crusted with brilliants and surmounted, one by a matchless saphire and the other by the celebrated Orloff diamond.

Adjoining these were crowns of all kingdoms and principalities, which together made up the empire of all the Russias, in delicate orients, metal work and precious stones. Greater than all these was the imperial crown, itself matchless in beauty, shining resplendant in jewelled lustre. Then followed the body of the deceased czar in a sumptuous gilt coffin, bore by Grand Dukes Constantine, Nicholas, Vladimir, Paul, Sergius and the Duke of Edinburgh. It was reverently placed exactly beneath the centre of the dome of the catafalque. The emperor and his mother removed the lid from the bier and the upper part of the body of the dead czar, attired in the uniform of the Preobrajenski guard regiment, was exposed to view. Emperor Alexander III placed himself, with the empress and the imperial children, at the head of the coffin. Priests and choristers intoned dirges of the Russian funeral service, while a metropolitan handed each person present a lighted taper and deacons sprinkled the church with holy water. The scene was one of great splendor. At lectern stood black-robed priests reading words of the gospel in a sonorous tone. At the four corners of the catafalque stood [illegible] aides-de-camp general, motionless. On the steps of the dias were a guard of military cadets. In the midst of all this splendor lay the murdered sovereign with ghastly upturned face and folded hands. The lower part of the body was completely hidden under a heap of fresh flowers deposited by loving hands. When the service was concluded Alexander III, kneeling on one knee, kissed the hand of his dead father. The empress followed his example, then bowing slightly to persons in the vicinity the imperial couple left the cathedral. The Duchess of Edinburgh and other grand duchesses present were successively conducted to the coffin to pay the last tribute of love and reverence to the murdered sovereign. Then followed all the imperial royal [illegible], foreign princes and members of the corps diplomatic. They gazed awhile at the features which, although altered, were yet easily recognized, then stooping, they kissed with reverence the hand that had signed the liberation of forty millions of serfs. The corpse will lie in state until Saturday in the shadow of the clustered columns that stand about the plain-topped tombs of white marble. Beside the tomb of the late empress is a vacant space, where according to his expressed wish will repose the remains of Alexander II. forever.

Sala sends a ghastly description of the late czar's appearance after embalming, as shown by photographs offered for sale in St. Petersburg. He says: The features are seen in profile, the left side of the face exposed, sparse hair carefully brushed from his temples, grizzled mustache and whiskers carefully trimmed and kept, but the eyes are mere sunken wrecks, and there seems to have been a dire wound on the cheek, marks of which have been partially concealed by art. The head reposes on pillows of white satin, the body is clothed in the green uniform tunic of the preobajenski guards, with massive epaulets of gold bullion. The right hand partly bent rests peacefully on the breast, close to a medallion of some image sacred to the Russo-Greek communion; but with this head and torso ends, they say, all that remains of the mortal coil of Alexander II., there being nothing more of the shattered form for craftsmen of all Egyptian mystery to work their gloomy skill upon. From the trunk downward the destruction caused by the explosion has been complete.

Another correspondent gives the following details relating to the duke and duchess of Edinburg: The duchess of Edinburg bears her great loss with characteristic fortitude. On her arrival last week, and after visiting the chamber of death, she was greatly overcome and sleep refused to assuage her grief. Next morning, however, she visited the principal [illegible] and remained more than an hour. In the evening the duke and duchess, incognito, paid a visit to the spot where the fatal bomb struck the emperor. This is now enclosed and planted with cypress trees at each corner, the intervening space being covered with memorial wreaths and with them, a sacred picture, placed at one end, and a silver lamp burning before it. Here the duchess remained praying for some minutes. The people standing near seeing a lady in deep mourning kneeling in the snow were much moved. This spot, as might be expected, is visited by crowds daily. It may be from natural or morbid curiosity on the part of some, but also from unaffected reverence and esteem on the part of others. The municipality has decided to build a memorial church on the spot in accordance with the wish of Alexander III.

The Regicides.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 22.—The indictment against Nicolai Russakoff and Rei Telykoff, Timofei, Michaeloff and the woman Hesse Helfmann will be communicated to them. They will be allowed seven days for the preparation of their defense by counsel. The Agence Russe says it is evident the assassination of the czar was planned abroad, chiefly in Paris and Switzerland.

M. Zola's Views of the Russian People.

PARIS, March 22.—M. Zola contributes a long article on Russia and the nihilists to the Paris Figaro. He ridicules the idea that it is possible to found a republic in Russia in the present state of Russian society. The 60,000,000 peasants, forming the greater part of the nation, are ignorant, isolated and wholly devoted to the czar; the popular element in the towns is powerless for revolution, and if the nihilists continue the policy of blood and violence we may some day witness a spectacle of infuriated peasantry, rushing blindly to the rescue of their "little father," bent on indiscriminate slaughter. Modern Russia, says M. Zola, will probably be born of political and social facts borrowed from all the nations of Europe. It will be the work not of theorists, but of time and circumstances.

A "Shocking" Story.

PARIS, March 22.—A dispatch from Genova states that a correspondent of the Intransigeant, supposed to be Dragonoff, reputed chief of the nihilists, declares that Roussakoff and Jellboff have been mercilessly put to torture in the presence of Gen. Louis Melikoff. Roussakoff was electrified by a powerful battery and forced by the intolerable agony he suffered to answer the questions put him.

Russian Students to be Consulted.

The rector of the university recently told the students that they would be invited shortly to discuss impending reforms.

A Royal Courtesy.

BERLIN, March 22.—Emperor William has a very cordial telegram from the czar, congratulating him on his birthday.

The House of Commons.

LONDON, March 22.—In the commons the under foreign secretary said that the French government had expressed readiness to enter into negotiations for a commercial treaty with England as soon as the tariff had passed the senate.

Gladstone said that the government received a telegram from Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood stating that an arrangement had been made with the Boers who substantially accept British conditions. The announcement was received with loud cheers.

Gladstone as a Witness.

LONDON, March 22.—Gladstone has been subpoenaed as a witness in the Lawson [illegible] libel. His evidence will relate to correspondence between the Greek Metropolite and Gladstone, in regard to Bulgarian massacres, which correspondence was alleged to have been published by the Daily Telegraph unauthoritatively.

Irish Affairs.

DUBLIN, March 22.—At a meeting of the land league to-night all who addressed the meeting explained our apology for Dillon's speech about Judge Fitzgerald, in which the judge was warned that he had better take care that the league did not do away with him. The Fenian council of Balinsor has resolved to shoot a landlord who last year shot a man in self defense, during a riot on a farm from which a tenant had been evicted. It is stated that two men have been selected by ballot to execute the assassination. The police are in possession of all the facts.

Peace in South Africa.

DURBAN, March 22.—The Boers have accepted the British terms for cessation of the war, and have appointed a royal commission. Peace is regarded as sure.

Terms of Peace.

PROSPECT HILL, March 22.—An armistice of forty-eight hours has been concluded in order to terminate negotiations. The terms of the truce are that all arms, munitions and other property captured by either side, during hostilities, shall be restored; that the Transvaal shall be granted independence, subject to conditions to be hereafter settled by a royal commission, and that the Boer government shall commence after the commission shall have made the report. Meanwhile British garrisons are to remain in the Transvaal without anywise interfering with local affairs. The Boer forces will disperse forthwith and Captain Elliott's murderers are to be delivered to justice.

German Affairs.

BERLIN, March 22. The question of including Altona in the customs union threatens to lead to a constitutional conflict. If his health will permit, Bismarck will participate in the debate.

Suspicious.

BERLIN, March 22.—A bomb with a fuse attached, has been found in front of Duke Gasuna's palace. The police are investigating.

French Affairs.

PARIS, March 22.—The cabinet will maintain neutrality in the debate on the Scrutin Deliste bill. This decision is considered a success for Gambetta.

Railroad Accident in France.

PARIS, March 22.—A dispatch says that a fatal railroad accident on Chemin Defer de Liege was reported this morning near Bond station, caused by a collision between a train and an empty wagon left on the line. 22 persons were killed and injured.

Distinguished Representatives.

It is understood that President Grevy intends to delegate in addition to one or two military members of his household, several eminent citizens who like Marquis De Rochambeau and Oscar De Lafayette by their old family associations are certain to be welcome, to represent France at the Yorktown centennary.

Prosecution of Parisian Editors.

PARIS, March 22.—The editor of the Citoyen has been sentenced to six months imprisonment and 1000 francs fine, the manager of that journal to three months and 2000 francs fine, the editor of the Jouvenile six months and 2000 francs fine, and the manager of the Revolution Social to the same.

For America.

BERLIN, March 22.—Eleven hundred persons left to-day for Bremen and Hamburg to embark for America.

THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

In pursuance of an order of the Umatilla county court 250 young trees have been purchased, and are now being set out in the court house square, Pendleton.

Sheriff Travillion, of Baker county met with a painful accident last week. He was carrying a heavy [illegible]

Western Oregon.

Mr. Hume's new cannery at Astoria will be known as the Ilmore Packing Company.

An extensive addition is being made to G. W. Hume's lumber yards, Astoria. Although the mills are running night and day the demand is greater than the supply.

Southern Oregon.

[illegible] at Walla Walla.

There is an unusual amount of sickness in Ashland.

Lakeview gives promise of extensive improvements this year.

More gravel than was washed last year has already been disposed of at the Sterling mine.

Schumpf's tunnel is now 240 feet in length and will be completed in less than a month.

The wife of J. D. Cook, formerly of Walla Walla, died from cancer at Prescott, Arizona, recently.

The miners of Josephine county have plenty of water still and are busily at work, sanguine of a good run.

Green Bros., at Galice creek, are still pounding away on rock that averages $6 per ton and gets better the deeper down they go.

Baughman & Newman, mining below Kerbyville, cleaned up lately, with very good results. They took out a large amount of gold dust after making a short run.

Olwell's mill at Phoenix has closed down for the present, the wheat supply being almost exhausted. The steam mill at Jacksonville is also running irregularly for the same reason.

L. J. Rogers and Ladru Royal of Ashland, have been held in bonds of $200 each to answer to the grand jury to the charge of malicious injury to animals, by cruel driving between that place and Jacksonville, two weeks since. The charge was preferred by Henry Norton, proprietor of the Ashland livery stables.

D. W. Anderson and Cook Bros. have struck a rich streak in a gulch on Farmer's Flat, heretofore unworked. From five buckets of dirt $1 87 was realized, while one day's work with a rocker returned $15 and another a like amount. The gold is of an excellent quality, but unfortunately the water is so light that no extensive mining can be done.

The company that leased a portion of Dodge's field for mining purposes and laid down a flume not long ago that was swept out by the high waters of Kane creek soon afterward, are busily engaged in refluming, and hope to have a half mile completed in two weeks. They will not be able to do much washing this season, but will make up for lost time next winter.

A three-year-old daughter of F. B. Martin who lives near Lafayette, narrowly escaped being burned to death last week. The little girl jumped out of bed in the morning and ran to the fire, when by some chance her night clothes were ignited and before her mother could smother the flames the child was badly burned, her right leg from the ankle to the hip being crisped.

Unless fair weather prevails soon, the acreage of spring grain in Jackson county will be light. Some farmers have already given up the idea of seeding any more this season, intending to put the balance of their land in corn and sow it in grain next fall. Spring farming seems to be becoming more unpopular each succeeding year, and not nearly so much of it will be done hereafter.

A petition to the postmaster general, requesting that R. M. Garrett, who has the contract for carrying the mail between Jacksonville and Crescent City, be allowed full pay and that no deduction be made on account of failure to connect, has been signed by all the postmasters on the route and forwarded to Washington. Mr. Garrett has always made the most strenuous efforts for regular and efficient service, and if he failed it was no fault of his. The testimony of every citizen on the route to this effect can also be secured if necessary.

Ashland Tidings: The proposed bridge at Ashland is to be upon hammered stone walls, 16 feet long and about 12 feet high, 3½ feet wide at the bottom and 2 feet wide on top, 33 feet apart at the bottom, and to be upon a foundation at least two feet below the bed of the stream. The walls when completed are to be covered with two-inch plank, full length and width. The bridge is to have six stringers with straining braces, iron rods and no king post. There is nothing like an occasional flood, and a little wholesome discussion to improve bridge architecture.

Jacksonville Times: Robt. Taylor, of Lake county, agent for Jesse D. Carr, has purchased several hundred head of cattle in Jackson and Josephine and will probably drive out 500 head in the spring. J. Hanley's sons will drive a like number to Eastern Oregon, while F. M. Plymale, Applegate Bros., and others have also bought large bands to be driven thither when the weather becomes favorable. These purchases will clear this section of surplus cattle, especially below three-year-olds. The total number that will be driven out is approximated at several thousand, and promises to be much greater than at first thought for. Prices range from $3 for calves to $15 for three-year-olds.

An Italian writer makes the stories about Vanderbilt, Jay Gould and the Astors and Mackeys take a back seat with the following figures: Mark Antony spent about $1,000,000,000 in merely sowing his wild oats; Nero gave $100,000,000 in presents to his friends; Heliogabalus gave a dinner that cost $100,000, the toilet of Agrippina on a special occasion footed up $1,500,000, and her box of jewels at home was worth $120,000,000.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Indications that there will be no Extra Session of Congress.

THE ADMINISTRATION OVERWHELMED BY APPLICANTS FOR OFFICE.

The Republicans in Caucus Select Candidates for the Senate Offices—Gorham will have the Secretaryship.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The president has nominated Stewart L. Woodford, U. S. attorney for the southern district of New York; Asa W. Tenney, U. S. attorney for eastern district of New York; Lewis F. Payn, U. S. marshal for the southern district of New York, Clinton D. McDougall, U. S. marshal for northern district of New York, Edward S. Meyer, U. S. marshal for the northern district of Ohio, Henry Fink, U. S. marshal for the eastern district of Wisconsin; M. A. Jones, U. S. marshal for the northern district of Illinois.

Senate Proceedings.

In the senate Voorhees offered a resolution that the hostile attitude assumed by national banks toward refunding the national debt at low interest, and the recent attempt to dictate the legislation of congress on that subject, are contrary to the interests of the people and calculated to alarm for the future. Voorhees said that he wished to make a few remarks, but Morrill raised a point of order. Ferry sustained the point, and Voorhees, after saying that he had no idea that legislative acts might not be done here, said he understood that precedents ran the other way. Conkling suggested that Voorhees let it lie until to-morrow, when senators could look up the law and precedents. Voorhees assented.

The senate went into executive session and at its close adjourned.

Confirmations.

In the executive session the senate confirmed Henry G. Pearson, postmaster at New York; R. W. Berry, collector internal revenue, Boise City Idaho, Lieut. Col. John M. Brannan to be colonel Fourth Artillery, vice Upton deceased.

New Senate Officers.

Republican senators in caucus decided to offer a resolution in the senate to-morrow providing for a new election of senate officers. The following were agreed upon unanimously: Secretary of the senate, Geo. C. Gorham, California; sergeant-at-arms, Harry Riddleberger of Virginia; principal executive clerk, James R. Young of Pennsylvania. The following were selected by ballot: Chief legislative clerk, Charles W. Johnson of Minnesota; chaplain, Rev. Dr. Byron Sunderland, Washington. Riddleberger is a warm personal and political friend of senator Mahone. He was a colonel in the confederate army and is now one of the editors of the Shenandoah Valley Virginian. Mr. Johnson was nominated at the instance of Senator McMillan.

Of an Extra Session and Refunding Bill.

The semi-official announcement that no final decision was reached at the cabinet meeting to-day in regard to the extra session question is regarded as a strong indication that no call will be issued. The various arguments outlined in last night's dispatches averse to the issuance of a call have evidently to-day gained great currency among republican senators and representatives, for many who have heretofore advocated an extra session for the purpose of passing a funding law, are now convinced that no measure satisfactory to their party would have any assured chance of passage at present, and while the pressure in favor of an extra session has about exhausted its force, the opposition is hourly becoming more powerful. Protests directly or indirectly addressed to President Garfield are pouring in from representatives of business interests in all the principal cities.

All the republican members of the senate finance committee together with senators Bayard and McPherson, two of the democratic members, have cordially advised the president against the issuance of the proposed call for refunding purposes this summer, and Secretary Windom has expressed a decided opinion that the treasury department will be abundantly able to take care of the maturing debt for the remainder of the calendar year, without additional authority from congress to as great an extent and with as satisfactory saving of expenditures for interest as could reasonably be hoped for if congress was convened in May. On the whole, the outlook to-night indicates that the idea of convening an extra session this spring will be abandoned, and that if congress be convened in advance of its regular session the date will be fixed for about [illegible]

More Office Seekers.

Fresh installments of office seekers have [illegible] this city within the past twenty-four hours, [illegible] the places of those who have [illegible] home. [illegible] seekers are especially numerous. [illegible] is abroad that the president intends to make up the general [illegible] to [illegible] applicants [illegible] who are here [illegible] the district attorneyship. This office has been vacant [illegible] resignation for two weeks. Meanwhile the applicants hang around the white house and bother the president to distraction. Pennsylvania office seekers are also conspicuous. There are [illegible] fat offices in Pittsburg, for which there are twenty ravenous applicants. In Philadelphia there is a surveyorship of the port to be filled, with a dozen anxious patriots wanting it. For such offices, such as department clerkships, the candidates are beyond calculation. Every congressman has all the way from a dozen to fifty to propose [illegible] worry is beginning to tell on President Garfield. He complains that his appetite is failing him, that his sleep at night is disturbed and his general health is breaking up. Under the advice of his friends he began yesterday taking out door exercise on horseback. At 5 o'clock he left the white house accompanied by his private secretary, mounted on a spirited horse and rode out into the country. He looked jaded and worn. The president sits on a horse well. From the start he went off at full gallop, looking neither to the right nor left. After the experience he has had for more than three weeks with applicants for office, he is in a condition of mind, no doubt, to prepare the message which he foreshadowed in his inaugural recommending the passage of a law to insure fixity in the terms and tenure of all public offices. The nominations sent in to-day for the various New York marshalships and district attorneys are all of pronounced Conkling men, and with one exception are all reappointments of officers whose appointments were originally procured by him, and whom President Hayes ineffectually endeavored to displace by the nominations of Foster, Shepard, Jacobs and others which expired without action with the last congress.

The Central Pacific Case to be Reopened.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The auditor of railroad accounts will in a few days bring the case of the Central Pacific to the attention of the attorney general. He hopes to begin early in the administration and attempt readjustment of the controversy. The last administration, it is claimed, let the case go by default because it did not take tangible shape until so near the end of Hayes' term that the attorney general was unwilling to open it when he could not hope to turn it over to his successor in a completed condition. Attorney General McVeagh can start fresh with it, and if the reports of the auditor are true, will have a Herculean task on his hands, whose accomplishment will reflect credit upon him, and when failure will be damaging to the government. It is alleged that for the two and a half years ending with 1880 there was due to the government from the road over three million dollars in money alone, while all that will be collected for that period will be about $724,000.

An Old Question Settled.

Secretary Kirkwood has approved the decision of the commissioner of the general land office that the lands embraced in the old Cherokee reservation, so called, near Dardanelles, Ark., are not subject to entry and are not included in the grant to the Little Rock & Fort Smith Railroad. Congressional legislation to extinguish the reservation is suggested; also prior ascertainment of any valid Indian claims and that actual settlers on the reservation will be protected in their homestead rights. The question relating to this reservation has been pending before the interior department since 1828.

Still Undecided.

Republicans are not agreed as to electing Mahone's Virginia readjuster candidate for sergeant-at-arms of the senate, State Senator Riddleberger. Some say that the election should go over until a regular or extra session.

The New York and Illinois Nominations.

Anti-Grant republicans are somewhat disappointed by the stalwart character of the nominations in New York and Illinois.

Probably Not.

Although there is a popular clamor for an extra session, there is also an undercurrent against it, especially among western congressmen and financial interests, and the best republican opinion is it will not be called. The cabinet will probably decide this afternoon.

A Short Appropriation.

The appropriation for water and gas for public buildings is insufficient for the fiscal year.

Resignation.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Secretary Kirkwood to-day received a letter from R. D. Trowbridge, commissioner of Indian affairs, tendering his resignation and requesting acceptance at once.

MEXICO.

Railroad Grants.

NEW YORK, March 22. The railroad grant in Sonora was signed by President Gonzales. It is made to Samuel Brannan and his associates in his colony enterprise and extends from Hidalgo City, their location on the Yaquina river, to the Guaymas and Tucson branch of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad.

"A babe," says a writer, "is a mother's anchor." And he might have added that the mother is the "anchor's" spanker.

Slaven's Cherry Tooth Paste.

An aromatic combination for the preservation of the Teeth and Gums. It is far superior to any preparation of its kind in the market. In large, handsome opal pots, price 50 cents. For sale by Woodard, Clarke & Co., Portland, Oregon.

GENERAL NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Possible War in Overland Rates.

[illegible], March 22.—A general [illegible] agent of the [illegible] Topeka & Santa Fe railroad [illegible] the Union Pacific officials [illegible] the efforts of the latter to [illegible] reduction of passenger rates from Chicago to San Francisco so that the rate over the Union Pacific [illegible] shall not exceed that by the Santa Fe road. The difference now is in favor of the Santa Fe [illegible] because the [illegible] Kansas City is cheaper by reason of the railroad war [illegible] to Omaha. A [illegible] rates between here and San Francisco is among the possibilities.

A Desperate Strike for Life.

CHEYENNE, March 22.—George Parrott, alias Big Nose George, of [illegible] Mountain, a murderer and notorious road agent who is under sentence to be hanged on April 20, attempted to break jail this evening at Rawlins. He got his shackles off, with which he attacked the jailer when he entered the corridor to lock the prisoners in their cells for the night. The jailer's wife hearing the conflict had the presence of mind to lock the outside door, locking the jailer in with the prisoners. The alarm was then raised and a large number of citizens hastened to the jail and released the jailer and secured the prisoner. He will be doubly ironed and strictly guarded until the day of his execution. This action of George is surprising, since he has always manifested a contrite spirit and did not desire a trial, pleading guilty to the indictment and desiring to be hanged soon. When sentence of death was passed on him he wept like a child and broke down completely. He also said that his health was failing in consequence. These facts gained him much sympathy, but now threats of lynching are made. All desire now to see him suffer death.

Lynched by a Mob.

CHEYENNE, March 22.—A special dispatch to the Leader from Rawlins states that Big Nose George was taken out of jail by a party of masked men at 10:55 to-night and taken to a telegraph pole opposite the railroad machine shops, where a rope was thrown over a crossarm of the pole and Big Nose George was made to climb up a ladder when the rope was placed around his neck and the ladder pulled out from under him, letting him swing between heaven and earth. His last words were "I will jump off, boys, and break my neck."

Competition Closed.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Active competition between the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroads has ceased.

"Forget Me Not."

Judge Sedgwick, of the superior court, this morning granted [illegible] Ward, actress, a permanent injunction restraining Lester Wallack and Theodore Moss from producing the play "Forget Me Not."

New York Items.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Tribune: Charles Seitz, a lager beer brewer of West Twenty-eighth street, made an assignment yesterday. Liabilities about $100,000.

The Edison Electric Light Co. has been granted permission to lay tubes, wires, conductors and insulators and erect lamp posts in this city for the purpose of supplying electricity for illumination.

Mill Burned.

[illegible], March 22.—[illegible] mill burned, with a large amount of wheat. Loss $25,000.

Another Strike at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, March 22.—The Cincinnati machine molders who struck for 25 per cent advance a month ago and got 10, struck again to-day because the employers refused to discharge [illegible] who worked during the strike.

Died.

John M. Pettit, member of the [illegible] congress died to-day.

Brutal Outrage.

[illegible], Ark., March 22.—Three young men well connected, entered the house of [illegible], whose wife is a daughter of the [illegible] and an unmistakable [illegible] which caused her to order them out of the house [illegible]. They have not as yet been arrested.

Chicago Comment on the Nominations.

[illegible]

Charged with Embezzlement.

DENVER, Colo., March 22.—[illegible], who was arrested here several days ago, charged with embezzling $[illegible] from [illegible] of New York, left to-day for that city in charge of a New York detective.

A Bonanza for Harrington.

NEW YORK, March 22.—The Harrington [illegible] Harrington, Mass., [illegible] the will of Mrs. Mary [illegible] wife of the [illegible] It is said that she will leave that town [illegible] taxes in San Francisco, and the people of Great Barrington are looking forward to having her pay the bulk of the taxes of that town, as her personal property and Pacific Railroad stock will all have to go into her list.

The Morey Rascals Discovered.

The Tribune says: It is reported again that the rascal who forged the Morey letter has been hunted down, and that he and his accomplices will be dragged into sunlight probably before long. A Western correspondent telegraphs a gentleman who has considerable to do with engineering the search for the author of the Morey letter, has stated positively that all the parties implicated in the affair are known, and that as soon as the testimony can be put in proper shape, a full exposure will be made. He also said that all the parties implicated would be prosecuted in the courts.

Successful Co-operation.

The Tribune's experiment of co-operative dress association, in New York City, will begin under very favorable conditions. The application for stock, which closed yesterday, greatly exceeded the number of shares to be allotted, and other evidences of widespread interest in the project are given.

Love, Murder and Suicide.

CHICAGO, March 22.—It seems that young Seymour, who perpetrated the murder and suicide at Lake View last night, had been a suitor for the hand of Oraln's young daughter. Seymour was twenty and she, seventeen, and the father objected because of their extreme youth and of Seymour's reckless and disreputable manner of life. In fact, Seymour strove from Chicago to Lake View last night with a young Egyptian, telling her that he was going to get some money and would live with her. This woman drove back when she heard the fatal shots fired, and told the story. Crain was a most worthy and reputable man, in comfortable circumstances. Seymour was also of good family.

Chicago Nominations.

Indian Remains Found in a Seattle Door Yard.

SEATTLE, W. T., March 22.—The weather has been delightful for the past two days, threatening rain to-night.

Workmen engaged in grading a lot for Mrs. Allen, on Eighth street, this afternoon exhumed an Indian skeleton, in perfect state of preservation, within four feet of the back entrance to the house, which was built some fifteen years ago. The skeleton lay stretched full length in an old decayed cedar canoe, wrapped in shreds of a decomposed blanket made of cedar bark. In the canoe were found a stone pestle and the blade of a tomahawk of remarkably clever workmanship. The skeleton indicated a man of tall stature, being over six feet in height.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

PROBABLE RESULTS OF THE NEW ISSUE DISCUSSED.

Some Matters in the History of the Stock.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, March 22.—The Commercial Advertiser's article to-day [illegible] feature of business at the stock exchange to-day is [illegible] by Northern Pacific shares. These [illegible] yesterday at [illegible] for preferred and [illegible] for common stock. The preferred [illegible] and the common opened at 42, fell to 41½ and [illegible] The reason for the recent decline and further fall to-day [illegible] by the [illegible] of the fact that the [illegible] have authorized the distribution of [illegible] shares of par value of $18,000,000 of common stock of the company among those who as stockholders of the old Northern Pacific were entitled to [illegible] by the terms of reorganization. Technically, [illegible] shares of stock were issued to the stock exchange rules which require due notice of any addition to share capital were not violated. Nevertheless the stock was backed up and it was generally known that there was only about $20,000,000 on the market instead of $40,000,000, as represented by $80,000,000 shares [illegible]. It appears that some of the directors [illegible] the contemplated division. Whatever may be said in justification of the distribution itself, it cannot be denied that the manner of making it is open to criticism. It was an important matter in the affairs of the company and should have been deliberately considered by all interested instead of being sprung like a trap upon not only the public but those fairly entitled to know everything about the management of the company. It seems to be a question whether the Villard or Oregon Navigation pool are benefited or injured by the distribution. If they had continued [illegible] before, they would be injured. If not, the distribution would help them to get control.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The Tribune says: The announcement of the distribution by the Northern Pacific railroad company of the residue of common stock amounting to nearly $18,000,000 par value, excited great surprise in Wall street yesterday. The effect of the issue [illegible] on the market, but on the position of the Villard pool was the subject of [illegible]. An active member of the pool [illegible] that it had never been claimed that the pool had secured the greater part of the company's stock. He declared that it only held a larger amount than was held by any other or could be secured by any other now. However, the same person said about two weeks ago that Villard had secured absolute control of the company, and he declared yesterday that Villard still held the stock he had previously bought. A director of the Northern Pacific company who was also a member of the bondholders' committee at the time of the reorganization, explains [illegible] reason why the residue of the stock had not been distributed before. When the bondholders bought the property in 1875 they were loth to admit to equal participation in the new company former stockholders on account of the high position and character of many of the stockholders. Their reluctance was overcome at last. Common stock was issued for old stock, share for share, but it was stock which was deprived of the power of voting until July 1st, 1878. The [illegible] of the residue stock, which amounted to about $18,000,000, came in [illegible] Afterward the capital stock of the company was divided so as to give to the preferred stock a control of the company ever after the common stock became entitled to vote, but the preferred stock was convertible at par into certain lands of the company and a countercontrol of the management which had been granted to the preferred stock by the plan of reorganization became impossible by the conversion of part of the preferred stock. The issue of residue common stock held in the company's treasury would have destroyed the supremacy of preferred stock. Under these conditions the stock was retained until the demands of the property became imperative, compelled the company at an early date to pass from preferred to common stockholders. The next general meeting of stockholders will take place in September. Whether the preponderance of the stock may then be in favor of common stock [illegible] with the company is willing to predict.

Eastern Washington Wheat.

[From the Walla Walla Union.]

Mr. [illegible], general freight agent of the O. R. & N. Co., recently estimated the wheat surplus of the Upper Columbia country as follows: There has been stored in Walla Walla twelve thousand tons, and earlier in the season it was supposed that the country around had twelve thousand tons more that had not been hauled. Of this last, probably one-third has been since then fed to stock in severe weather, and that would make the total of wheat surplus for the Walla Walla country twenty thousand tons. Add to this five thousand tons for the Pomeroy country, tons of the upper country and the sum total is 25,000 tons and at least 10,000 tons has already been brought down, so that 35,000 tons may be considered the actual surplus for the Upper Columbia region for the harvest year of 1880-1. Whether this surplus will all be actually exported is another question not easy to answer at present.

Says the Cincinnati Enquirer: It is admitted in some quarters that the new secretary of war cannot tell a double-barrelled shotgun from a mountain howitzer. But he will learn. There was Uncle Jack Thompson. When he went into the navy he did so with the impression that a hatchway was a place to set hens.

"Jacob, is there much difference between a sea and a saw?" "Yes, the difference between see and saw is in tense."

WRINKLED FACES.

It is a painful sight to see young ladies in their teens with wrinkled and prematurely old faces; nevertheless it is quite common, and to any one who observes the tendency of the times the reasons are apparent. Owing to flaming advertisements and bogus certificates, in which are used the names of eminent physicians and chemists, the unsuspecting and credulous have been induced to use some of the so-called liquid beautifiers, all of which are known to be positively injurious and if used for any length of time will destroy the complexion, so that it will be next to impossible to restore it. Mothers should be very careful to see that their daughters do not use these preparations but ask for and obtain Sayer's Harmless Yosemite Face Powder, the only harmless beautifier. A GROWING RAILROAD POWER.

Another Account of the Villard Movement in Connection with the North Pacific.

[From the Springfield, Mass., Republican, March 7.]

There is no longer doubt that the Northern Pacific railroad has passed into the control of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company. This is a company that was organized a couple of years ago to consolidate and carry on under one management the transportation business of Oregon and Washington territory, both by water and rail, which openly each as has been before been attempted in this country. Its President is Henry Villard, a German American, who [illegible] became connected with the enterprise as the representative of German interests, its [illegible] Horace White, formerly editor of the Chicago Tribune, and one of the directors and a large owner in the company is William Endicott, Jr., a leader of Boston capitalists and business men. The two chief factors in the consolidation were the Oregon Steamship Company, running a line of steamers from San Francisco to Portland, and the only one, [illegible], and the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, which controlled the traffic on the Columbia river by a mixed line of boats and short railroads around the unnavigable portions of the stream. The managers of the new company appreciating the extraordinary resources of the country for which they afford the sole outlet, immediately undertook the development of their property by constructing a continuous line of rail along the Columbia river, and by extending a short road already built into the interior from a point on the Columbia a few miles south of its junction with the Snake—in two lines, to the northeast and southeast, through the rich agricultural lands of eastern Washington and Oregon. The work has been carried rapidly forward and many miles of new road have already been laid. Meantime the increasing business of this region, resulting mainly from the development of its wheat lands and the high rates of transportation the Oregon company has been able to obtain, have greatly enlarged the company's income both from the ocean and river traffic, its securities have mounted in value and its credit has become almost unlimited. Its managers, however, were not slow to discover one dark cloud in the blue sky of prosperity.

The Northern Pacific railroad, which had lain dormant for six years was beginning to show the effects of President Billings' spirited administration about the time that Mr. Villard's enterprise was launched into existence. The charter of this continental road permits it to construct two lines through Washington territory, one over the Cascade mountains to Puget sound and one down the Columbia river to Portland. The Pend d'Oreille division, extending from the eastern boundary of Washington territory southwest to the Columbia river, is now nearly built, and it, some time ago, became apparent that in the natural course of events the Northern Pacific would soon be connecting this division with Portland by means of a road on the north bank of the Columbia, which would obviously interfere with the business of the Oregon company, owning a road on the south bank and the river steamers. The interests of the latter company were also in a measure threatened by the projected branch of the Union Pacific from Ogden, northwest through northern Nevada, Idaho and Oregon to the sea, all of which will without doubt ultimately be built.

For some time the Oregon management sought to dissuade the Northern Pacific from building down the Columbia, proposing various plans for an alliance of the two companies, but all of them, it is likely, based upon an exalted theory of the value of their own property. At all events, the efforts at compromise failed, and the Northern Pacific remained free to carry out its original purposes until Villard conceived the idea of buying it outright and so preserving and extending his valuable monopoly. With this intent, a short time ago, he invited his capitalist friends to advance $8,000,000 for a purpose not to be disclosed until 1 May, and so great was the confidence in his financial and executive abilities that not $8,000,000 but $15,000,000 were soon subscribed for his use. With this, or as much of it as was required, he set to work to buy up a controlling interest in the stock of the Northern Pacific, and has now [illegible], though it gave him the [illegible] of the situation, one of the [illegible] stock, [illegible]

[illegible] Oregon and Washington, because of their isolated position, have waited long for the settlement which their natural attractions invite. But they will wait no longer. The next ten years will see a vast growth in their population and wealth. As we see, the commanding spirits in the personal [illegible] railroad managers who find the way in the civilization of our great west are already quarrelling for a monkey in these rich new fields.

NORTHERN PACIFIC STOCK.

The original charter of the Northern Pacific railroad company fixed the total amount of stock at $100,000,000. Under the old management less than half this amount was actually issued. When the failure occurred in 1873 there was a large bonded and floating debt. Foreclosure took place and the entire property was bought in by a committee created for this purpose by an association of the principal bondholders. Under the plan of reorganization the capital stock of the company was continued at $100,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of $100 each, and this was divided into preferred stock, 510,000 shares, $51,000,000 and common stock, 490,000 shares, $49,000,000. The preferred was created to meet the principal and interest of outstanding bonds and other debts of the company. It is entitled to dividends, not exceeding eight per cent. per annum, as the net earnings of each year may suffice to pay, before any dividends can be paid on common stock. The reason is the obvious one that the preferred stock represents the investment made to clear the organization of debt incurred under the old management. The bondholders who assumed these debts are justly entitled to the first return. When the net earnings shall be sufficient to pay eight per cent. dividends on both the preferred and common, the surplus is to be divided on both alike, according to the number of shares issued of each. The whole amount of preferred stock authorized by the plan of reorganization was issued to adjust former liabilities. Part of it, however, has been surrendered in exchange for the company's lands in Minnesota and that part of Dakota east of the Missouri river, the plan of reorganization having made the preferred stock receivable at par for these lands. By such exchange this stock had been reduced, as the last official report of the company shows, from $51,000,000 to $43,412,645; and of this amount there remained in the treasury as an asset of the company $4,111,830, leaving $39,100,818 as the amount outstanding. This was the condition of the preferred stock in June last. Since then it has probably been somewhat further reduced by further exchange for lands. Of the $49,000,000 of common stock authorized by the plan of reorganization, only $31,000,000 had been issued, up to last week. The balance—$18,000,000—remained in the treasury. Distribution of this stock to the persons entitled to receive it is the transaction of which we had yesterday an account by telegraph. It makes the whole amount of stock now outstanding about $88,000,000, or perhaps a little less, since the preferred has no doubt been reduced to some further extent since the publication of the last official report. At eighty-eight millions the stock represents a prodigious sum of money. The preferred at 70 would have a present value of $27,300,000, and the common at 44 would be worth a total of $21,560,000, making an aggregate of nearly $50,000,000 as the present market value in cash of the stock of the company. Advices from all sources leave no doubt that the Villard party are entirely confident of controlling the management of the road. For more than a month they have anticipated this as a result of their operations. What the exact strength of the two parties is will probably not be known till the annual meeting of the stockholders in September. Our dispatches have indicated that both parties regard the new distribution of stock as favorable to the Villard combination, particularly as it is known that Mr. Villard had bought up many of the proprietary rights in advance of the issue of this stock, so that much of the new issue goes directly into his hands. Whether the new issue is simply a result of a desire on the part of those to whom the stock was due to take advantage of a favorable market, or a leading incident in and consequence of the contest between opposing interests for control of the company, does not yet clearly appear. Nor does it clearly appear at this distance what part President Billings is taking in these transactions. He is very discreet and able and thoroughly devoted to the great enterprise to which he has given so many years of hard work, and which at last he has brought to the threshold of complete success. Under his direction the Northern Pacific has been redeemed from the blight of mismanagement which formerly fell upon it. As he himself wrote some months ago when the success of the great syndicate to furnish money for completion of the road was announced, "Anybody now can build the Northern Pacific railroad." Mr. Villard's plan to bring it into connection with the Oregon railway system is one of the greatest operations ever undertaken, if indeed it be not without a parallel in affairs of this kind. Besides Messrs. Pullman of Chicago and Endicott of Boston who have been named heretofore as associated with Mr. Villard in his undertaking, further advices mention also Drexel, Morgan & Co. and Winslow, Lanier & Co., great banking firms of New York, as lending aid in it. It may be remembered that this last named firm headed the great syndicate formed last November to secure money for completion of the road.

INEFFICIENT POSTAL SERVICE.

Great complaint comes from Eastern Oregon and Washington about the inefficiency of the mails. Last night half a dozen letters were received at this office from different localities, all burdened with the complaint that THE OREGONIAN is not received. Scarcely a day passes without similar complaints. The newspaper mails seem hardly to be carried into Union and Baker counties at all. Throughout the whole upper country the service is miserably inefficient. Is there anybody to look after it? Why can't the mails be carried? Can any one tell? If there be any official in Oregon and Washington whose business it is to look after these matters we hope this particular complaint will engage his attention. Let us find out why mail carriers don't carry the newspapers, or why postmasters don't send them along. The investigation ought not to be entirely hopeless. These failures are utterly without excuse. During the winter "cold weather" stopped the mails. People had to submit to the inconvenience and privation during the freeze-up. But it would seem that pretty much everybody connected with the postal service east of the mountains had forgotten to resume duty when the ice blockade was raised. It is not probable, however, that they have forgotten their pay. We have heard too many complaints from that section; and THE OREGONIAN now and hereby gives notice to all whom it may concern or should concern, that if the mails are not carried there it will find a means of knowing why. This paper is mailed regularly at Portland and the postage on it is paid in advance. It starts from Portland regularly on time; and yet we receive no end of letters complaining that it frequently happens that only one or two copies are received a week. Even the weekly paper often misses, and sometimes doesn't get through at all. People say they are about tired of this, and we don't wonder.

Terms of peace have been agreed upon by the British government and the Dutch settlers in the Transvaal. The Boers gain their object, the privileges of self-government and England gains some concessions. Of course England could easily have subdued or even annihilated her rebellious subjects had she earnestly set about it, and the result is rather a triumph of home sentiment against the war than of the [illegible] victories of the Boers.

Kansas having made an absurdly intemperate prohibition law, the question of its enforcement now comes in, and the end cannot but be failure, especially in the cities. The law went to the extreme of forbidding the use of wines for sacramental purposes, and the fanatical committee which has secured the most extravagant provision upon the house to put that into it will prosecute any minister of the gospel who dares to give wine at communion. There can be but one ending to such intemperance. The law will defeat itself.

Again the author of the fraudulent Morey letter has been "hunted down." But the discoverers of the much-hunted wretch are not quite ready to "drag him and his accomplices into the sunlight." It has come to be a peculiarity of these discoveries that their victims are never dragged into the sunlight. Let us hope, however.

We have received the annual report of the Sacramento board of trade for the year 1880. It contains a description of Sacramento, its trade, history, a statement of its present business status and considerations bearing on its future. The aggregate trade of the city for 1880 is shown to be $31,112,000.

THE UNDERSIGNED [illegible]

THE COMMERCIAL REPORTER

WILL be published as usual this week, and will continue publication, notwithstanding contrary reports are being diligently circulated. Having purchased all interest in said paper, I desire to announce that nothing will be left undone that will serve to give the mercantile and commercial interests of this section a journal devoted to their welfare. I shall soon be able to present valuable statistical information, and to do this properly I ask the support of the mercantile community. The large home, eastern and foreign circulation of the COMMERCIAL REPORTER renders it a desirable advertising medium.

OSCAR L. CLAY.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATES OF LEVI Estes and C. M. Carter, bankrupts. In Bankruptcy. Pursuant to an order of the Hon. [illegible] District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon [illegible] on the [illegible] day of March, A. D. 1881, I will on Wednesday, the 20th day of April, 1881, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., sell all the right, title and interest of the estate of said C. M. Carter, bankrupt, vested in the assignee, in and to the following described real estate situated in the county of Washington and state of Oregon, to-wit: [illegible] Washington County Record of Deeds [illegible] at the door of the Court House of the U. S. District Court at Portland, Oregon.

Said lands will, by order of said court be sold free from all liens.

Deeds will be at the expense of the purchasers.

CITY.

[illegible] CRESWELL.—The OREGONIAN's traveling correspondent sends the following account of a fire [illegible] occurred at Creswell, Lane county, Monday [illegible]. When first seen the flames were bursting [illegible] the roof of a large two-story building belonging to Mr. J. T. Spray. It was soon seen that [illegible] attempts to save the building would be of no [illegible] and the energies of all were directed toward [illegible] the household goods from the dwelling [illegible] to the burning building. The [illegible] together with the residence attached [illegible] entirely consumed. The loss is estimated [illegible] insured for $800, divided equally between [illegible] English companies. The fire evidently originated in the attic over the hall, or upper room, for [illegible] was blazing from above the roof before there [illegible] in the hall. By the burning of the [illegible] Mr. Yancy and wife, two aged and feeble [illegible] were deprived of a home, but the good people [illegible] the matter in hand, and while yet the [illegible] their old home were smoking in ruins, a [illegible] was provided and the family moved in [illegible].

[illegible] CONCERT COMPANY.—Mr. F. W. [illegible] last evening from Walla Walla, [illegible] the Espinosa Concert company as playing [illegible] The first county-boro' [illegible] in the U. S. army, under the [illegible] Walker, escorted the company [illegible] arrival in Walla Walla, and Mrs. [illegible] a reception at the post, some of [illegible] citizens being invited. The company [illegible] Wednesday night in The Dalles for the benefit [illegible] Relief Society and return to Portland [illegible] playing in Salem the 25th, Corvallis 26th, [illegible] 28th and Oregon City 29th, closing at [illegible]. We trust the valley trip will prove a profitable one, and congratulate the valley folks in securing the troupe.

[illegible] GAINES' MONUMENT.—The foundation of the [illegible] erected by the state of Oregon in the old [illegible] cemetery at Salem over the last resting [illegible] of Gov. J. P. Gaines, who filled the executive [illegible] in the territorial days of 1850 to 1853, has of [illegible] years been crumbling away and the monument [illegible] nearly prostrated to the earth. The attention [illegible] Hon. R. P. Earhart, secretary of state, being [illegible] to the facts, he at once gave orders to have [illegible] foundation repaired, the monument straightened [illegible] its place and the surrounding lot cleared of [illegible] brush, etc. The monument stands immediately in the main carriage way, and when fixed up will be quite an improvement on its appearance for [illegible] past.

[illegible] FOR INSTITUTION.—Mr. Ward S. Stevens has recently received a petition from East Portland, asking for the institution of Court Willamette Ancient Order of Foresters in that place. The founders of the petition—those to whom the dispensation will be directed—are William Peabody, G. G. Garrison and C. H. Hill. The petition has been signed [illegible] eleven persons. Mr. Stevens will forward the [illegible] in the outgoing steamer to the subsidiary high court of the United States, at New York. A dispensation will probably be received in the course of a few weeks. The new court will be instituted [illegible] the 1st of April by Deputy High Chief [illegible] W. S. Stevens.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.—A letter received this evening states that "the health of Gen. E. B. Babbitt is very much better than when in Portland." Major Lawrence E. Babbitt and wife "are in Washington visiting relatives." Ned Weeks, well known [illegible] many of Portland's high school lads, "is still [illegible] well at Annapolis," and Miss Fanny Weeks "[illegible] at school in Bethlehem, Penn.," and "Col. G. H. Weeks is at Fort Leavenworth." Gen. E. B. Babbitt continues to take an interest in the Portland seamen's bethel, also Mrs. Col. L. H. Weeks. The former sent a life membership fee, $50; the latter [illegible] a life membership fee, which, for ladies is $25.

[illegible] A BOAT RACE.—The very fine weather [illegible] past has been admirable for aquatics, [illegible] for rowing, and ever so much pleasanter for [illegible] than more heated days later in the season. [illegible] enough material here for half a dozen races [illegible] a season instead of one or two as last year. [illegible] not promised anything particularly interesting [illegible] sports this summer, besides the base [illegible] and cricket grounds are not located within [illegible] distance, hence cannot attract crowds. Will [illegible] managers of the boating clubs arrange for a [illegible] to take place early in June?

[illegible] E. C. Paige who succeeded in furnishing [illegible], was released from custody at Pendleton, [illegible] days ago, and is in this city. Levi Knott and [illegible] Thomas, of Portland, are his sureties in two [illegible] actions against him, in which his bail was [illegible] $700 and $800. His bondsmen in the third [illegible] in which his bonds were fixed at $1,000, are A. [illegible] M. H. Folsom, J. M. Bentley, Henry Bowman, [illegible] Furling, J. P. Dunn, George A. Hartart and W. T. Matlock, all of Pendleton.

[illegible] AND OFFICERS ELECTED.—The [illegible] of the Oregon Boot, Shoe and Leather Manufacturing company, at a recent meeting, elected the [illegible] directors: John W. Brazee, Geo. L. Hibbard and John Switzer. Subsequently J. W. Brazee was elected president, Geo. L. Hibbard, vice-president, and T. L. Riggs, secretary and treasurer. The [illegible] of the company will be under the personal [illegible] of Mr. Switzer, who is well qualified for [illegible] position.

[illegible] GAUGE.—Work is going on lively on the narrow gauge railroad in the vicinity of Newberg, [illegible] distance beyond Taylor's ferry. About 150 [illegible] are working on this road, one gang of [illegible] camping on J. Wiley's place, one on Hillside farm, one on Mrs. Rock's farm and so on to the [illegible]. Bridge timbers and ties are being cut by [illegible] men all along the line of the road so far as [illegible] survey is completed.

[illegible] LIVERY STABLE.—R. M. Wilbur is building [illegible] immense livery stable on Second street between [illegible] and D, running through to Third. It will be fifty [illegible] hundred feet and three stories high. The [illegible] story will be fitted up as a lodging house, and [illegible] lower floor will contain two stores. The building [illegible] very substantial and when completed will be [illegible] largest of the kind in the state. Its cost will [illegible] upwards of $9000.

[illegible] LODGE K. OF P.—A petition from the lodges [illegible] Oregon has been forwarded to the supreme chancellor, Knights of Pythias of the World, asking for the institution of a grand lodge for this state. This petition was forwarded about two weeks ago to [illegible] Lindsay, of Baltimore. It is probable the [illegible] lodge will be instituted about the latter part of May.

IN NEW HANDS.—Mr. Oscar I. Clay has bought the Commercial Reporter, and will hereafter have complete control of the paper. Mr. Clay for several [illegible] has had charge of much of the detail work, [illegible] has sufficient experience and ability to conduct [illegible] paper so as to fill its field. He merits and will [illegible] receive full measure of success.

THE PARK BLOCKS.—During the past week the [illegible] prisoners under charge of C. P. Elwanger have [illegible] at work on the Park blocks, which are now in [illegible] order. Trees have been trimmed, the younger [illegible] securely fastened to stakes and boxes, the earth [illegible] them spaded, the grass raked and fences repaired.

[illegible] COLLECTION.—Quite a large and appreciative audience listened to Chaplain Stubbs' address [illegible] Sunday morning in the Presbyterian church. The annual collection reported is $126 05. This includes subscriptions made by members of this [illegible] and the cash collections.

[illegible] REPAIRS.—The city prisoners were engaged yesterday in making some much needed repairs to [illegible] Washington street bridge. The structure is in anything but a safe condition even with the many braces [illegible] has received, and sooner or later the gulch will have to be filled in.

THE N STREET BRIDGE.—This structure, across [illegible] lake, is more than half completed, and will [illegible] finished within a month. The eastern terminus [illegible] nearly opposite Greenwich dock, and the western [illegible] leads directly north of St. Vincent's Hospital.

[illegible] SPELLING.—They charge licenses for shows [illegible] The Dalles, and the Espinosa Concert Company [illegible] not an exception to the rule. The city clerk [illegible] the blanks of the receipt thuswise: "S. F. [illegible] Co., for an opera company."

[illegible].—The vessel Viola has discharged most [illegible] cargo and will have quick dispatch for Europe. Yesterday 150 tons of grain was placed on board to stiffen her up. To-day she will commence receiving cargo in earnest.

[illegible] DISMISSED.—The case yesterday of the U. S. [illegible] Clinton, in the U. S. district court was dismissed. Information had been filed against Clinton [illegible] selling liquor at The Dalles without a license.

[illegible] POSTPONED.—The sailing of the steamship Columbia has been postponed from 8 o'clock [illegible] morning to 9 o'clock A. M., the same day, [illegible] to take advantage of the tide.

[illegible] ARGUED.—To-day the motion for a preliminary injunction in the case of Hatch & Lownsdale vs. the Willamette Iron Bridge Company will [illegible] argued before Judge Deady.

[illegible].—The British bark Ryhvale has cleared [illegible] Liverpool with the following cargo: 8090 barrels [illegible] flour, valued at $45,070; 13,050 centals wheat, valued at $20,932.

[illegible] SOCIAL.—An enjoyable entertainment will be given at Liberty Hall this evening. All [illegible] of mirth and music invited.

IN BOND.—The steamship Oregon on her last trip [illegible] port brought from San Francisco 300 sacks of [illegible] and 45 sacks of peas in bond.

For choice meat try that beef at Hoffman's.

SANITARY.—The FIRE.—The committee on fire and water propose to strictly enforce the provisions of the ordinance requiring the engineers of the different fire companies to file a certificate, signed by the proper authorities, certifying as to their competency as an engineer. A failure to comply with the requirements of this ordinance on the part of any fire company will work a forfeiture of the company's quarterly allowance of $175. No certificates have been filed to date. The quarterly allowance will be due on the first of April, but will not be paid until these certificates are filed.

LADY PHYSICIANS.—A private letter received from Ann Arbor, Michigan, states that Mrs. Dr. B. A. Owens, for several years a practicing physician of this city, will shortly take her departure for Europe, where she proposes to pursue a further course in hospital practice. She will be accompanied by Miss Georgia Carpenter. Both of these ladies have been pursuing medical studies at the Ann Arbor university for the past two years.

SORE [illegible].—The OREGONIAN of last evening [illegible] scarlet fever is still on the increase in East Portland. The directors of the public schools have issued an order prohibiting children of a family that is afflicted with the fever from attending [illegible], yet they manage to get into the schools almost daily in spite of the exertions of the teachers to prevent it.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

New lot of Fresh Halibut at C. A. Malarkey's, Second and Oak streets.

John Crank & Co. have the agency for the Hathaway Shirts, and are prepared to take measures for them. They have opened a new lot of their celebrated unlaundried shirts—the best value for the money on this market; also a fine lot of new style gentlemen's linen collars and cuffs.

Mrs. L. Pilger, of the leading Suit and Cloak House, has just returned from San Francisco, and is now ready to exhibit to her patrons and to the public the most elegant stock of imported novelties in dry goods trimmings, fancy goods, hosiery, laces; also elegant assortment of ready-made suits, latest style of French Mantillas Cloaks. She is prepared to offer great inducements in this Cloak and Dressmaking department.

Those who have occasion to pass the splendid establishment of Ackerman, at Nos. 87 and 89 First street, Union Block and 86 and 88 Second street, cannot resist the temptation to pause and take a look at the almost bewildering assortment. Mr. Ackerman offers the greatest inducements possible to the public in the way of low prices. Any one who will visit the "Dollar Store" and inspect the magnificent stock, will be convinced that the proprietor undersells all competitors by at least 25 per cent. The large show room is open for public inspection. Every imaginable article in the crockery and glassware line can be had at such prices as will "astonish the natives." Clocks, picture frames, satchels, valises, vases, bird cages, lamps, baby carriages, all going at greatly reduced rates. Hotels, boarding houses, or parties about to go to housekeeping are offered extraordinary inducements.

CHURCH INCORPORATION.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday in the office of the county clerk by Hillery Eason, John Kenworthy, H. Hanson, W. C. Brown, Geo. Johnson, E. [illegible] and W. T. B. Nicholson.

The name by which the incorporation shall be known is the First Methodist Episcopal Church of East Portland, and its duration is perpetual.

The object and business of the corporation is the maintenance of the worship of God, the support of religious observances, ordinances, means and customs of the Methodist Episcopal church and the [illegible] of Christians.

The estimated value of the property of the corporation at this time is $8,000, consisting of land, church building, parsonage and appurtenances belonging to the same, and the sources of revenue are voluntary contributions, assessments on its members and friends.

The legal officers of this incorporation shall be known as trustees, who shall be elected by the quarterly conference of the said First M. E. church of East Portland, and shall hold their offices until their successors are elected.

The trustees shall constitute a board of directors and shall have power to elect a chairman, secretary and treasurer.

The corporation shall be located in the city of East Portland.

PORTLAND SEAMEN'S FRIEND SOCIETY.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ORGANIZATION.

Reports of the Auditing Committee—Election of Directors—Resume of the Society's Work—The Proposed Mariner's Home, Etc., Etc., Etc.

Pursuant to public notice advertised in THE OREGONIAN, the regular annual meeting of the Portland Seamen's Friend Society was held in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association on the 21st inst. Hon. H. W. Corbett, the president, being absent, the vice-president, B. Chance, M. D., presided.

Chaplain R. S. Stubbs was called upon and offered a prayer to God. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved.

The following report was read and adopted:

PORTLAND, March 21, 1881.

To the Portland Seamen's Friend Society: The undersigned beg leave to report that they have carefully examined the books of the treasurer and find that all moneys coming into his hands have been properly accounted for and that the balance of receipts and expenditures set forth in his report of the date is correct.

We have also examined [illegible] receipts [illegible] disbursements and find they agree with the statement [illegible] of the treasurer, and in the treasurer's report, and that all his disbursements are properly vouched for.

The available assets of the society appear to be as follows: [illegible] $356 cash in hands of treasurer, [illegible].

Respectfully submitted,

[illegible] CHANCE,

P. C. SCHUYLER,

Auditing Committee.

[illegible] vote of thanks was then unanimously adopted: [illegible]

After listening to the carefully prepared annual report of the board of directors of this society, by the secretary and treasurer, and also to the full exhibit [illegible] the [illegible] interests of this society since its organization in November, 1877, this annual meeting hereby unanimously tenders a vote of thanks to Mr. [illegible] for the faithful and important services he has rendered.

[illegible] Stubbs [illegible] the report, which was adopted.

The next business in order was the election of directors. [illegible] the following gentlemen were [illegible] to serve as directors for the term ending March, 1882: W. S. Ladd, H. W. Corbett, [illegible] McCraken, Chaplain Stubbs, [illegible] Ladd, and [illegible] were duly elected.

Article 4 and 10 of the by-laws were amended. It reads as follows: Any person paying into the treasury of the corporation the sum of $5 shall be a member for one year, and $25 a member for life; provided, however, that any lady who shall pay into the treasury the sum of $2 shall be entitled to life membership. Members and life members only shall be entitled to vote and hold office. Clergymen of Portland and East Portland, in pastoral charges, shall be ex-officio members.

Art. 10. The board may make such by-laws as they may deem best and necessary, and five members of the board shall be a quorum for the transaction of business.

According to the secretary's report the society has raised for its Home fund $5,924 57, interest on the same, $257 40; rents from cottage, $70.

Its Home fund has been expended as follows: Purchase of lots 1 and 4 blk 27, Couch Addition, $3,500; cost of Bethel building, moving and refitting, and furniture, $1056 41; Bethel cottage, $418 61; repairs to Bethel property, $342 24; insurance, street improvements and taxes, $253 18.

According to the chaplain's report collections from four of the city churches are as follows: Unitarian, $4 75; Methodist, $37 90; Congregational, $151 00; Presbyterian, $127 05; rent from Bethel hall and school room, $125 05; from Bethel cottage, $133 00; from friends in Portland, $152 50; from shipmasters, $52 00; from friends in Oregon for support of missionary, $110 00; expended for same purpose; from American Seamen's Friend Society, New York, $87 50; from same source, towards the chaplain's salary, $670 00.

These general contributions have been disbursed as follows: Missionary service, $[illegible]; sexton, $96 00; lights and fuel, $87 50; laborers, $71 75; traveling expenses, printing, stationery, postage, $107 17; towards the chaplain's salary, $162 50.

During the past year religious services have been held in the Bethel every Sunday, morning and evening; prayer meetings twice each week, and temperance meetings each Monday evening; meetings on board ships on Sundays at 3 P. M., whenever weather has been favorable and ships could afford accommodations. Chaplain Stubbs and wife have visited the Samaritan and St. Vincent's hospitals from week to week, as other duties have permitted. The patients have been conversed and prayed with whenever it was not considered to be injurious [illegible]. Through the kindness and generosity of W. Wadhams Esq., also Mr. Gallagher and other citizens [illegible] good and excellent reading matter has been at the command of the chaplain, his assistants and volunteer helpers to supply the wants of these excellent institutions who never [illegible].

Over [illegible] papers of reading consisting of tracts, religious papers, pamphlets, magazines and [illegible] books have been supplied to the deep-water and coastwise vessels leaving this port.

The children of seafaring people and strangers have received baptism at the hands of the chaplain. The sick and the dying and the dead have also been [illegible] the services of the chaplain and his [illegible] wife, and these are cases [illegible] will [illegible].

Extensive [illegible] hands. [illegible] moved, the strangers [illegible].

[illegible]

The following letter from one of Portland's [illegible], in regard to the [illegible] by Chaplain Stubbs, was received by him yesterday:

OAKLAND, Cal., March 14, 1881.

CHAPLAIN STUBBS—Dear Sir: Yours of 28th ult. received. I will give $250 towards the erection of [illegible] proposed bethel building, conditioned that it [illegible] built and clear of debt before the close of 1882.

Yours respectfully, J. C. AINSWORTH.

This sum makes the subscriptions now secured amount to $4500, exclusive of the $100 promised by the American Seamen's Friend Society of New York. So soon as $4500 more are pledged contracts will be made and the Mariner's Home will be commenced.

Votes of thanks were passed to the press of Portland, for their generous supplies of daily and weekly papers for the Bethel reading room, which has been greatly enjoyed by a large number of visitors from sea and land; also to the papers furnished weekly by friends in Oregon, Missouri, Illinois, Boston and New York, also in Dundee, Liverpool and London, also the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, the Portland Water Company, the American Seamen's Friend Society of New York and the Young Men's Christian Association, for their generous favors to this society and its laborers.

The meeting then closed. Notice was given that this society will hold its anniversary services on next Sunday evening at 7:30 in the Unitarian church.

ACCLIMATIZATION OF GAME BIRDS.

It is very much to my regret that nearly three-fifths of the beautiful game birds sent hither for domestication by Judge Denny have died on the passage, for it may be that the captivity of those that remain has impaired their procreative desire. As this may not seem reasonable to many of your readers, I will give my reasons for the supposition. To begin with, I must state that prior to 1865 there was but one steamer per week between New York and Liverpool. Now a man can leave York for New York any day in the week.

Well, in those days of long-timed and heavily sparred sailing vessels a party of gentlemen met at the social board of Linn Adams, of Newark, N. J., and, after [illegible] was [illegible] the conversation turned upon the game birds of both continents. My cousin, Frank Palmer, insisted that the sagehen of the Pacific territories (for California was not even then admitted into the Union) was identical with the black-cock of the Scottish moors. This was hotly disputed by our amiable host and several other guests, among whom was the redoubtable Bill McLeod, who drove the first tandem team ever driven in the streets of the city of Gotham. They were two spanking bays, called Bull of the Woods and Tantrum Bolus, the latter being the southern negro name for delirium tremens.

Bill McLeod told my cousin that he was good enough ornithologist for Ireland, but he would do for the land o' cakes. So finally it was decided to raise $100 for a batch of these birds to be imported to the only northern Hancock state as soon as any suitable person could be found to look out for them. McLeod, a few days later, informed Mr. Adams that his friend Sandy McTavish was about to visit his friends in Scotland, and on his return to America he and his brother-in-law, Archie Blinkhoodle, who married Balie McGregor's daughter, would bring along the birds (at least twelve pairs. Judge of our good feelings, some four months later, to hear that the two canny Scots had sailed from Glasgow with twenty pairs of these beautiful birds. The passage of that sailing vessel occupied at least seventy days, and but twelve pairs of birds reached New York alive.

Six pair were turned out on the big forest back of Schooley's mountain, while the rest were sent into a dense pine barren, interspersed with swamps, in Monmouth county. Men were requested not to shoot them, and I never heard of any one being offered for sale in the New York market, although the Jersey woods were full of pot-hunters. But they never bred, nor do I believe that one can be found in that state to-day. My own idea is that their long captivity on the voyage impaired their procreative powers. And it may be so with these pheasants and sand-grouse which Judge Denny has sent to Oregon as a souvenir.

But in case they do reproduce themselves I hope the lovers of field-sports in Oregon will not fail to give another trial and carry out the good work which our former police magistrate has begun. In fact, I know that at least $100 could be easily raised in this city for that purpose in sums ranging from $20 to $5, according to the means of the donors. My own idea is that had these birds been sent over in November, the mortality among them would have been greatly diminished. The present winter has been a very severe one, being much colder here than in Japan; but such a thing would not happen again in ten years. Hence I think the Oregon sportsmen could well afford to renew an experiment which so far, has cost them nothing.

The greatest and choicest bird to import to Oregon, in my estimation, would be the Japanese woodcock, if the thing could be done successfully. He is by about 30 per cent. a larger bird than the becasse or woodcock, which I shot along the bayous of Louisiana during the winter that preceded what Mr. Nasby was pleased to call "the late onpleasantness." Our American woodcock weighs about five ounces for the male bird and eight for the female, whereas the Japanese bird of the masculine persuasion pulls down the scales at seven ounces and his superior fraction at fourteen.

Now, these birds are necessarily migratory, but I doubt whether they would find much winter-feeding ground in California. I should rather look to find them in the myrtle bottoms along the Coos and Coquille rivers, and in any event south of Humboldt bay. And in summer time they would be easier found in British Columbia and in Alaska than in our own State. If they gave us shooting along the cottonwood bottoms between Vancouver and Rooster Rock, in August and September, that alone would recompense us for the outlay of getting them here, for none of our northern neighbors would be apt to shoot such small game. They hunt for meat and want nothing smaller than male deer or yearling bears.

But I deem it almost impossible to get them here on account of the length of the voyage, and their peculiar food. The average trip from Yokohama to San Francisco is 21 days, and their food consists of earth worms and larvae of insects for which they probe the fat muck with their long slender and sensitive bills. Their flesh is about equal to our jacksnipe, save that being much larger birds, they can be sent to the table in a much juicier condition. It would be hard to carry them alive on a 27-days' voyage, just because Martin Luther is dead and there would be no way of giving them a diet of worms. Hence, it is my belief, at least $500 could be spent in the attempt to aclimatize these savory birds with no really satisfactory results.

Oregon has fine grouse-shooting, far ahead of California and equals her in ducks and snipe, though she falls behind her on quail. To preserve what we already have is a bounden duty, and if we can add to the attractiveness of our field sports by acclimating foreign birds and fish, we should not hesitate to do so. What we should have is an association for that purpose, to consist of at least 50 members at $10 per year, to have an annual hunt and an annual dinner party. It would benefit the State in more ways than one. CORINTHIAN.
